FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Greg Silich Is Named Capital H Group CEO and Expands Executive Leadership Team

Chicago, Illinois -- Capital H Group, LLC, the talent, leadership and organizational consulting firm, recently named Greg Silich its Chief Executive Officer. As CEO, Silich oversees the firm's operations worldwide.

Formerly the firm's Chief Operating Officer, Silich replaces Dan Weinfurter who stepped up to the post of Chairman of the Board of Directors to focus on board initiatives. With Weinfurter, Silich co-founded the firm in 2003 and has led its acquisition efforts to broaden service offerings and market reach. Inc magazine named Capital H among the top 500 fastest growing private companies in the United States, ranking it 134th in 2007.

These and other leadership moves coincide with the integration of a major acquisition Silich spearheaded. Late last year Capital H Group acquired the renowned London-based Centre for High Performance Development (CHPD), a consulting firm specializing in leadership, and announced a 2008 integration plan. CHPD offers clients a rigorous and validated methodology to help corporate leaders drive better performance. Its expertise complements Capital H's portfolio of talent and organizational-related services including organizational design, change management, workforce planning, talent acquisition, and performance management.

"The integration will forge one organization aligned with one strategy to bring all of the services and resources of Capital H and CHPD to existing and new clients. Our vision is to be the premier global firm for talent, leadership, and organizational solutions. Phase I of our integration focuses on the U.S. market," noted Silich.

To help drive the combined global business, Silich expanded the firm's top tier leadership team. CHPD co-founders Chris Parry and Tony Cockerill, PhD have been elevated, joining Keith Swenson, Managing Partner as group level executives.

Silich brings broad and deep operations, finance, administration, and International experience within the business services industry to the CEO position. His twenty four year career is distinguished by a demonstrated track record of operational and financial performance improvement and value creation. Prior to his co-founding of Capital H Group, Silich had a successful fourteen year career at Leo Burnett Worldwide, Inc., rising to the position of Chief Financial Officer for the global business. He has played instrumental roles in numerous mergers and acquisitions.

Silich is a director on the board of CVM Solutions and a board member of Have Dreams, a not-for-profit organization providing an array of programs and services for children and families challenged by autism.

He is a Certified Public Accountant and holds a Bachelor of Science degree from De Paul University in Chicago.
